ATTRACTIONS:

Layton, Utah is located in Davis County, which is just north of Salt Lake City about 20 minutes. Utah is home to the greatest snow on earth, so skiing is a big attraction this time of year. The closest ski resorts to Layton (about 30 minutes) are Snowbasin (site of some of the 2002 Olympics) and Powder Mountain – both awesome ski resorts with less crowds and lines than the Salt Lake resorts (such as Park City and Snowbird – which are only about one hour away). Layton is also home to Antelope State Park – the largest island in the middle of the Salt Lake, home of pelicans and other birds, antelope, mule deer, big horn sheep, coyotes, and a herd of over 500 free roaming bison. There is hiking, a beach, and guided horseback rides. There is also Hill Aerospace Museum which exhibits over 100 military aircraft, missiles, and aerospace vehicles – admission is free. You can check out more about the area at www.davisareacvb.com and check out the map of the conference center area on the Events page of www.eagala.org.
