

PARENTING FROM THE BARN

This is a two day workshop designed to prepare participants to offer parenting groups using the EAGALA model. Participants will learn parenting programming, activities, marketing possibilities and personal application and experience of the techniques. Participants will have opportunities for coaching through role play and discussion and will utilize the horses and facility at PX Equine Enterprises Inc. The Parenting From The Barn Workbook is included in the cost of the two day workshop.

Workbook:

Parenting From The Barn: A Brief Guide to A Psycho-Educational Parenting Program

Utilizing Equine Interactive Learning Activities.

This manual gives you a head start in planning and implementing a Parenting Program with horses. The book was first written in 2004 and includes an overview of Equine Assisted Psychotherapy practices and Parenting Curricula. It was updated in 2005 to include "Transitioning (The Family Plan) with Equine Assisted Psychotherapy & Equine Interactive Counseling" which includes a sample program outline and takes you a step further into helping families move from challenge to healthy choices in parenting and family functioning. Practitioners from around the world have used this manual as a spring board to providing parenting programming in their Equine Assisted practices.

THE N.I.C.K.E.R.R. Program

Non-judgmental Interventions Combining Knowledge, Experience, Respect & Reason, a one day coaching experience focusing on teaching and coaching the application of 8 teachable group facilitating skills. These skills will assist the Equine Assisted Psychotherapy facilitating teams in understanding how to apply group process skills to their EAP work and avoid the pitfalls of getting stuck in one on one interactions during a group experience. Learn to understand the work that a group can do, the phases and stages that groups naturally move through, and how to harness the potential of herds and groups for the growth of the participants.

Diversity Training at The Barn

Understand and manage how diversity issues manifest and appear in EAGALA model services, within the treatment team and with clients. Develop Diversity training programs to provide to others such as corporate groups, students and other providers.

Internship Intensive

Come and Intern with an Advanced Practitioner and focus on your needs as an EAGALA provider! We offer a focus on groups and/or individuals. During the Internship you can get hands on with clients as well as one-on-one assistance in Program Design and EAGALA model coaching. Come for just one day or up to 5 days to meet your goals.

Resiliency Training & Programming

Resiliency is a critical need in both treatment options for your clients and in your EAGALA practice! Learn more about what resiliency looks like and how to move your EAGALA model work and your clients toward more resilient and productive coping skills.

Fillies & Colts: The Implication of Gender Differences in Behavior & Communication

Understand the verbal and non-verbal differences in communication style between the sexes and how to utilize those differences in your EAGALA model work. Implications of different communication styles can affect the treatment team communications, the understanding of horse and client non-verbal communications, and even the direction and decisions about client progress and program decisions.
